Firm Profile

Since 1921, RSS and its versatile team of skilled lawyers have practiced law with a rare passion. We are a full service law firm dedicated to professional excellence, personal and high quality support and effective solution-oriented advocacy. Our attorneys are held in high esteem throughout Canada. RSS has obtained professional memberships that clients of the law firm of Robinson Sheppard Shapiro benefit from.

Each of our practice groups has the same approach: simple, direct and uncompromising pursuit of solutions and results for our clients. Our client's success is ultimately our own. Our staff has years of experience in all aspects of the Canadian Immigration process, beginning with the assessing of an individual, the processing of an application and the finalization of a successful case with little effort on behalf of the client.

Nowhere is this truer than in our Immigration Law practice group. Staffed by experienced and specialized attorneys, assisted by our affiliated offices in more than sixty countries, RSS has mastered the veritable maze of administrative procedures which governs the movement of business and independent persons to and from Canada.

No other Canadian law firm is able to offer to its clients the full range of Immigration Law services offered by RSS. Why put your fate in the hands of a small boutique firm when you can have the full RSS team behind your efforts to come to Canada?

To ensure the future success of your business, your employees, your family or yourself, allow RSS to assist you in reaching across international borders. In today's world, the movement of business and independent persons to and from Canada requires a wide range of legal services and advice from attorneys who specialize in Immigration Law. RSS offers to its clients a full range of these services, including Tax Law, Business Law, Employment Law and Family Law.

RSS CELEBRATES ITS 85TH ANNIVERSARY

With the dawn of 2006, Robinson Sheppard Shapiro celebrates its 85th Anniversary. Realizing that the success of its clients leads ultimately to its own success, RSS has dedicated its 85th Anniversary year to its loyal clients. Since 1921 several hundred lawyers and many more staff members have exercised their skills and talents on behalf of thousands of businesses and persons in need of legal counsel.

RSS remains a mid-sized, full service law firm dedicated to professional excellence, personal and high quality service and effective, solution-oriented advocacy. Our attorneys possess a broad range of legal expertise and are committed to providing experienced, versatile and practical legal counsel. Our approach is simple, direct and uncompromising. We are tenacious in the pursuit of our clients' interests and focus on providing the best possible service in a quick, efficient and cost-effective manner.

Meeting our clients' legal and business needs will continue to be our greatest priority. We are highly attentive and committed to providing a common sense, skilled approach to problem solving. To that end, we do not merely respond – we anticipate; we are not passive but proactive.

Our strong foothold in the business community since the firm's inception in 1921, the high esteem in which our attorneys are held, our intense dedication to our goals and the strategic alliances we have forged with professional firms around the globe allow us to ensure that our clients achieve their objectives.

In 2006, more than ever before, globalization is an everyday reality. Trade and other barriers have fallen and investment capital moves quickly around the globe. This new phenomenon has accentuated the movement of persons, as much for personal as for economic and social reasons.

RSS, through its experienced and specialized attorneys and its affiliated offices in more than sixty countries on six continents, provides counsel and representation to businesses and individuals, regardless of country of origin, wishing to establish themselves in Canada. The full service RSS team is always an important ally in assisting clients to attain their goals and fulfill their aspirations, as much before as after entry into Canada.

An overview of Canada’s immigration Regulations

Canada’s new Immigration and Refugee Protection Act (“IRPA”) was implemented on June 28, 2002. Canada is an extremely popular country in which to live and the number of people who wish to immigrate to Canada far exceeds the number of foreign nationals Canada admits in any given year. IRPA governs the process through which immigrants are admitted to Canada.

Canada’s immigration program is based on non-discriminatory and universal principles. Applicants are assessed on standards that do not discriminate on the basis of race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion or sex. Applicants are assessed on their ability to adapt to life in Canada and to settle successfully within its borders.

SKILLED WORKERS

Skilled workers are people whose education, language ability and skilled work experience will enable them to become successfully established in Canada. They are assessed according to a point system which evaluates their ability to adapt to the Canadian economy. There are six selection criteria. The selection criteria and maximum points allocated are as follows:

Family Class

FAMILY CLASS

Family Class members are people sponsored to come to Canada by a person who is a Canadian Citizen or a Permanent Resident of Canada. The Family Class applicant must be the sponsor's:

- spouse, common-law or conjugal partner;
- dependant child, including a child adopted abroad;
- child under 18 to be adopted in Canada;
- parents or grandparents; or
- an orphaned child under 18 who is a brother, sister, niece, nephew or grandchild and is not a spouse or common-law partner.

BUSINESS IMMIGRANTS

Business immigrants are people who are able to support the development of a strong and prosperous Canadian economy, either through their direct investment, their entrepreneurial activity or self-employment. Business immigration comprises the Investor, Entrepreneur and Self-employed Person classes.

To be eligible for immigration, business immigrants who are investors and entrepreneurs require a specified net worth and business experience as set out in IRPA regulations. Self-employed applicants require specific experience.
